

Internal Workshop (Not open to any media)
Capital Account Liberalization: International Experiences and Implications for China
Agenda (Preliminary)

Time: 14:00-18:00 p.m., August 25 (Tuesday), 2015

Location: Central University of Finance and Economics, Beijing

Organizer: School of Finance, Central University of Finance and Economics (CUFE), the Initiative for Policy Dialogue (Columbia University) and Global Economic Governance Initiative (Boston University)

Language: English

14:00-14:10 Opening Speech

Mr. Zhang Liqing (Dean of School of Finance, CUFE)

Session 1 International Experiences (14:10-15:40)

Moderator: Stephany Griffith-Jones (Professor from Columbia University)

Lead Discussants

- The Experiences of Latin American Countries about Capital Account Liberalization
Mr. Jose Antonio Ocampo (Professor from Columbia University)
- The Experiences of Japan about Capital Account Liberalizations
Mr. Kenji Aramaki (Professor from Tokyo University)
- The Experiences of Middle and East European Countries about Capital Account Liberalizations
Ms. Daniela Gabor (Professor from University of the West of England)
- US-China Bilateral Investment Treaty: Implications for China's Capital Account
Mr. Kevin Gallagher (Professor from Boston University)

All Participants

15:40-15:50 Coffee Break

Session 2 Implications for China (15:50-17:50)

Moderator: Mr. Tan Xiaofen, Professor, CUFE

Lead Discussants

- Ms. Xing Jujing (Director of Monetary Policy II Department, People's Bank of China)
- Mr. Guan Tao (Senior Fellow from CF40 Forum, Former Director of Department of International Payments, State Administration of Foreign Exchange)
"New Progress of Capital Account Liberalization and its Implications for China"
- Ms Gao Haihong, Senior Fellow, Director of Center of International Finance Studies, CASS
- Mr. Zhang Ming, Senior Fellow, IWEP, CASS

All Participants

17:50-18:00 Closing Remarks

Mr. Yu Yongding (Academician of CASS)